Center for Knit and Crochet Seeks Individuals to Join its Board of Directors

The Center for Knit and Crochet (CKC), established in 2012, is a powerful open-access digital museum that supports the preservation and enjoyment of knitting, crochet, and related arts with exhibitions, collections, programs, and educational resources. The CKC depends on eleven volunteer directors to carry out all the work to develop, operate, and promote the CKC. To support and accelerate the CKC's continued growth in membership, activities, services, digital resources, and programs, CKC seeks highly motivated individuals to join the Board of Directors.

While all interested individuals are encouraged to apply, CKC particularly needs skills and experience in the following areas:

- Information Technology (IT): Museum cataloging tools, particularly Omeka; website design and maintenance, particularly WordPress; nonprofit constituent relationship software, particularly NeonCRM.
- Communications/Public Relations: Monthly newsletter; outreach to public, guilds, national fiber-related organizations, and publications.
- Programs: Create and present lectures, online meetups with or without speakers, and educational programs, particularly to promote Collections Resource participation.

Please share news of these opportunities with anyone who may be interested in preserving and promoting the art, craft, history, and scholarship of knitting, crochet, and related arts., and who has pertinent skills and/or experience in these areas. Visit our website at <https://centerforknitandcrochet.org/apply-for-board-service/> to learn more about serving on the CKC Board.

Please direct any questions you have to the CKC Nominating Committee at nominations@centerforknitandcrochet.org and stay tuned for more information.
